

INTERNATIONAL HERITAGE FAIR: 27 TO 30 OCTOBER 2022

Ateliers d'Art de France is pleased to announce the 27th edition of the International Heritage Fair from 27 to 30 October 2022, at the Carrousel du Louvre – Paris. Eagerly awaited by all heritage stakeholders, the theme for this edition will be “Sustainable development: the DNA of heritage”, anchored in contemporary social issues.

Gathering heritage associations, art workshops, manufactures, heritage architects, the fair is the unmissable event for all stakeholders working on and looking after heritage every day.

As a place for exchanges and debates with all the industry professionals, the fair will once again place itself at the junction of synergies for the entire sector and will host conferences conducted by experts to elaborate a programme in connection with this year's theme.

Sustainable development: the DNA of heritage

While the notions of transmission and sustainability are inherent to heritage, the eco-responsibility of finding a balance between the environmental, economic and social aspects is at the heart of the stakes and challenges that the sector is facing.

The artists' activities rely on their choices with regard to materials, their traceability, their economics, their transformations through specific and mastered techniques. Many creators choose to work with local and natural materials, using short supply chains, and some even develop their activity pledging a complete mastery of the sector by developing their own materials.

The built heritage sector and heritage conservation associations are facing the challenge of responsible renovation, especially to reconcile energy efficient refurbishment and preservation of built heritage sites.

The tradition and innovation of the materials and the processes are essential and complementary elements.

Another aspect of this theme is rural or local heritage: a major resource and conveyor of sustainable development that contributes to the attractiveness of rural territories.

The 3rd edition of the Heritage Forum, organized by Atrium patrimoine et restauration magazine and Ateliers d'Art de France, will also be dedicated to sustainable development and will be held in the form of a television set at the heart of the fair, with various programmes scheduled: roundtables hosted by reputed experts to analyse the news and major challenges of the heritage sector.
